The China Itlail.

No unbiassed person can read the opinions Per City of Peking, for Amoy, Francis expressed by Mr Denny to his interviewer in Shanghai without being convinced of the stupidity of the reports about Russia Per Arratoon Apear, for Singapore, Mr having established a protectorate over Corea. The newspapers at home, away from the scenes and paying but a passing attention to what is going on in the Far East, may be excused for believing any wild rumours that are set affoat, but it is strange to find this state of gullability in places where there is a pretension to a slight knowledge of Fer Eastern offairs. Russis very likely covets Corea, just as some ambitious statesmen in Franco once dreamed of gobbling up the Southern encreachments of England. That she is still watching keenly the course of events The Norwegian steamer Johannes Brun in Cores there cannot be the least doubt, and that she is not so unselfish as not to take advantage of anything that tends in her favour there is every reason to believes. But all this is no proof that she has established a protectorate. In fact the present moment is the least likely time one could conceive for such a step being taken. By precipitating matters just now she would risk losing all. Even supposing her determination to be as strong and her unscrupulousness as great as the wildest Russophobe believes, she has shown a pationee and a power of waiting for the course of events to work out her ends, altogether at variance with the precipitancy that is credited to her with regard to Corea. Isitatali probable that with the situation in the Balkan peninsula stillso disturbedshe would risk warwith Eng. land and China on the Pacific coast, before her railways are completed or her present possessions in a state of defence? The idea is too preposterous to be entertained for a moment. The rumour about a protectorate, we have now almost full proof, arose Evensong :- Psalms, Davy, Pymar and out of a commercial treaty which seems to have been concluded between the two countries, the result apparently of negotiations that were began two years ago. The Japanese version of this treaty is apparently nearer the truth than most people suspected. But this treaty has no resemblance whatover to an agreement based on a protectorate. It resembles in its conception the France-Chinese Commercial treaty that was recently concluded, and is such a treaty as two nations bordering on each other may reasonably be expected to agree upon. One might as well have said that because France asked certain privileges for her merchants in view of the trade that was thought likely to develop between very existence of this new commercial treaty, rather less competitors than usual. as contemplating the endurance of a state

The captain signed a paper renouncing all right of claiming against the fine on the latter being reduced from £14 16s. to £10 10s. The agent gave a bond for the amount, and the vessel was released, but the agent refused to be bound by the captain's declaration, and disputed the fine altogether, ultimately getting it reduced to £2 16s. The Consul denies the right of the Customs authorities to board British vessels five miles off the coast, but unfortunately this particular case was not brought to his notice at the time. In the second instance a Liverpool barque from Triesto to Bordeaux was bearded and fined, and on the refusal of the captain to pay, the ship's papers were seized, the fine being reduced to 4l. The captain refused to pay even this, saying that he had no money, and as for the papers he would sail without them, and report what had Hereupon the papers were returned, and, the wind freshening the barque sailed off. The matter loses much of its consequence, because British sailing vessels are daily becoming fewer at Trieste, and the little revenue steamers would not think of boarding large steam merchantmen.

That there can be little doubt the extension of the Foreign Customs would provide guarantee for the due performance of any specific obligation with the Chinese.

That if a reliable guarantee could be obtained that no inland taxation would be imposed, there can be no question as to the advisability of lumping the taxes at the port of entry.

That as even the Chinese trader would never trust the native Customs underling and it is certain that the Foreign trader would neither trust nor bribe him, this arrangement can never be carried into practice save through the Staff of the Foreign Customs.

SUNDAY IN JAPAN. Much as the Japanese are given to copying the institutions of other nations, their copy is rarely a servite one, far more often an improvement on the original. A visit to Tokyo on a fine Sunday cannot fail to demonstrate this truth, at least in one instance, to a Londoner, as he compares the festive aspect of the capital with his dismal recollections of the same day at home. The observance of Sunday as a holiday, though rather of the continental than the British type, seems to be becoming pretty general in Japanese Cities, apart from any religious ideas; presumably it was initiated by the closure of the Government establishments on that day, and the citizens of Tokyo at any rate have not been backward in follow-Oredits, 4 ing the lead of their official guides. Japanese pleasures overeigns. are simple and inexpensive, of a nature indeed which would appear insipid in the extreme to an English crowd drawn from the" same solid level. At the cost of a few sen a pleasant day or afternoon is spent viewing the cherry blossome in sp ing, the irises in summer, or the chrysanthemums in autumn, and temperate refreshment is obtained from some tea-house or from the stalls of peripatetic caterers. An Englishman cannot but wish that the toiling masses in his own land were as generally capable, and had similar opportunities, of amusing themselves in a like simple and refined manner unhappily they lack not only the splendid climate of Japan, but what is more essential, that universal training of the cesthetic instincts and associated regulation of conduct.

WOMANHOOD. On Oct. 27 Mrs Fawcett delivered a lecture at the College for Men and Women. Queen's Square, Bloomsbury, the subject being 'Men, and Women, or Old and New Ideals of Womanhood. The main fact, she said, that the p sition of women was changing as regarded education, industrial status, political and social duties, was no longer denied or ignored. The growth of the women's movement implied a change in the ideal type of womanhood, and a change in the ideal relations between men and women. These periods of transition, especially in a matter affecting their every-day life and their conceptions of life, were always periods of difficulty and danger. A CHANCE NOT TO BE TRIFLED WITH .-

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY is announced in the 'Paris Figaro,' of a valuable remedy for nervous debility, physical exhaustion, and premature decay. The discovery was granite, there is some one there. Let us for so many hours, and the horror of feeling made by a missionary in Old Mexico; it saved him from a miserable existence and an early grave. We learn that the Rev. Bloomsbury Square, London, W. C., will send the prescription, free of charge, on receipt of a self addressed stamped enve-

> HOW PILLS ARE MADE. The Custom of taking medicine in the form of pills dates far back in history. The object is to enable us to swallow easily in a condensed form disagreeable and nauseous, but very useful, drugs. To what vast dimensions pill-taking has grown may be imagined when we say that in England alone about 2,000,000,000 (two thousand million) pills are consumed every year. In early days pills were made slowly by hand, as the demand was comparatively small. To-day they are produced with infinitely greater rapidity by machines especially contrived for the purpose, and with greater accuracy, too, in the proportions of the various ingredients employed.

No form of medication can be better than a pill, provided only it is intelligently prepared. But right here occurs the difficulty. Easy as it may seem to make a pill, or a million of them, there are really very few pills that can be honestly commended for popular use, Most of them either undershoot or overshoot the mark. As everybody takes pills of some kind, it obtained on application. may be well to mention what a good, safe, and reliable pill should be. Now, when one feels dull and sleepy, and has more or less pain in the head, sides, Railways. and back, he may be sure his bowels pill. It acts on the entire glandular system at the same time, else the after-effects of the pill will be worse than the disease itself. The griping caused by most pills is the result of irritating drugs which they contain. Such pills are harmful, and should never be used. They sometimes even produce hemorrhoids. Without having any particular desire to praise one pill above another, we may, nevertheless, name Mother Seigel's Pills, manufactured by the well-known house of A. J. White Limited, 35, Farringdon Road, London, and now sold by all chemists and medicine vendors, as the only one we know of that actually possesses every desirable quality. They remove the pressure upon the brain, correct the liver, and cause the bowels to act with ease and regularity. They never gripe or produce the slightest sickness of the stomach, or any other unpleasant feeling or sympton. Neither do they induce further constipation, as nearly all other pills do. As a further and crowning merit, Mother Seigel's Pills are covered with a tasteless and harmless coating. which causes them to resemble pearls. thus rendering them as pleasant to the palate as they are effective in curing disease. If you have a severe cold and are threatened with a fever, with pains in the head, back, and limbs, one or two NSUNDAY, the 23rd day of December, doses will break up the cold and prevent U 1888, at 10 a.m., the Company's brackish taste in the mouth is caused of Seigel's Pills will effect a speedy
